WAKESTOCK 2007 – SET TO SELL OUT WITHIN 10 DAYS

Following the rapid growth of Wakestock over the last few years, Europe's largest wakeboarding and music festival is set to sell out well in advance of the event.

Organisers are announcing this exclusively to the wake industry to give those with a love for the sport and who want to attend a chance to get their tickets before the general attendees know this news. It's obviously free to watch the main wakeboarding events, but if you want to get into the festival itself then please don't delay buying your tickets any more than you have to, as Wakestock will sell out a good two weeks in advance.

The riders selected to compete this year have now been informed and we will be announcing them next week along with the main format for the weekend. For those that don't know the music line-up or need some extra info check the website at www.wakestock.co.uk.

The last tickets are still available online also from www.wakestock.co.uk or by calling 01758 710000, or through Ticketmaster on 08700 602339 (24 hours) and via their website at www.ticketmaster.co.uk.
